Senator Comrie officially sworn in on first day in Albany

(Albany, NY) New York State Senator Leroy Comrie (D-Hollis) was officially sworn in during the legislature's first day of session on January 7, 2015. The Honorable Jonathon Lippman, Chief Judge of the State of New York, administered the Oath of Office to Senator Comrie who was joined by his family.

"I'm incredibly honored to be representing my neighbors and community in the State Senate," said Senator Comrie. "I look forward to getting to work for those who have put their faith in me and to begin tackling the issues that matter to them most. I'm committed to growing our economy, creating good local jobs and ensuring that every hard working person in Queens and across New York State gets a fair shake."

"As a former City Council Member and Deputy Borough President, Senator Comrie has long been a community leader in Queens," said Senate Democratic Leader Andrea Stewart-Cousins, who introduced Senator Comrie during her opening remarks. "He is a strong addition to our family of Democratic State Senators who are ready to help move New York State forward."
